CERTON SPRINGS, July 6, 1860. Passing a day here, I was glad to accept the other by a resident of the village of an introduction to the family of Herekiah Granger.

Mr. Granger many years ago matried the widow of Dr. Douglas, of Brandon, Vt., and the mother of Stephen A. Douglas, the Demo-cratic candidate for the presidency.

The residence of the venerable but most agreeable couple lies about two miles south of the Cliffon Springs hotel. Of the many elegant fare houses of, Oplaria country, that of Mr. Granger will rank among the first. It is just such a picture of cural quiet and degance that post have celebrated by every first house hourt back from any interest. ance that poets have colebrated by verse; that dramaties have painted to my lady love in the play, and denize m of cities envy so often as they pass, and think of the immates as those who have nothing left to sign for.

"What is this world in them."
The pump, to presente, and its managementally.

The family consists of Mr. and Mr. Granger, and the younger married couples. The effor Granger married the mother of his son's wife, the latter being the only sister of Slephen A. The neatness and elegance of the residence MAIN STREET STORE The heatness and stegance of the Integrated by the tasts and order which prevail within.

The first of the household to meet us wan the younger Mrs. Granger. She is a lady of some farty years, accomplished, and of intelligent is a very artise, sprightly and infelligent lady. She told me she was over seventy; had a guessed her age from appearance and conversation, I should have said at least fifteen year younger. In hight she is not over five fe and probably weighs less then one hunds citizen, individual liberty and independence to or constitue.
